With grandparents

Grandparents create memories that the heart keeps forever. And I can say with all the love that fits in my heart that I had the best grandparents in the world.

I miss them so much, and for this reason, when my clients ask me if their grandparents can participate in a session, my answer is always YES. Our children need and deserve to have this memory in their lives.

It is said that God created grandparents because it was too much love for one generation, and I really believe in that a lot. Grandparents are parents with much more sugar... And who doesn't love a sweetie?

Whenever possible, take pictures of your children with their grandparents and keep these memories forever. So, when physical affection is no longer possible, when that good smell that only grandparents have no more perfuming us and that delicious laugh is not sounding next to us, we will have memories of many good moments that we spent with "our old people" more than special.
